Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on January 21, 2005 has been entered.

2. As a courtesy, the examiner would like to remind applicant of the proper format for amendments to the claims. A complete listing of the claims must be present [including claims previously canceled]. Amendments to the claims must be represented in the official response i.e., when recitations or phrases are added or deleted, they must be properly marked.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claim 9 is still rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Allen [U.S. Patent No. 4,624,276]. Allen (figures 1-11) teaches of an umbrella grip (55) having a central shaft (12), the grip formed as a cylindrical shape and defining a longitudinal axis at a longitudinal center of the grip and shaft; an elastic string (56) operatively protruding out from the grip and forming a loop (fig. 8), the string being elastic (flexible strap as defined) and can be resiliently wound and engaged with a groove (58) circumferentially recessed in an outer surface of an extension wall (59) of the grip, the string may be fastened in the groove when not in use. The grip (55) includes two inherent string holes {located at 66 and 67 respectively} and formed in the groove for the insertion of two end portions (68 and 69 respectively) of the string, the string forming a loop portion extending outwardly from the grip and is fastened within the groove for a resilient tight fit as readily apparent to the examiner (fig. 9). The loop portion having a perimeter (viewed as the exposed perimeter of the loop portion) that is inherently smaller than the perimeter of the groove (the position is taken that the perimeter of the flexible sting would be minutely smaller so as to be properly received in the groove and maintain a "frictional fit", a sting perimeter larger than the groove perimeter would not permit a proper seat due to a bubbling or buckling effect.). The loop portion being resiliently tightly fastened on the groove of the grip without being easily loosened as evident in the fingernail recess (70) designed into the groove/grip structure for "peeling" the loop portion out of the groove when the use of the loop portion is desired.
